

Quiz

Criminal Justice

1. What is the purpose of retributive punishment?
  - a. Deterrence
  - b. The prevention of future crime by physically removing criminals away from society
  - c. The rehabilitation and restoration of individuals back into society
  - d. Just desserts
2. Which of the following is consistent with determinism?
  - a. That every action that occurs, including human behavior is causally necessitated by antecedent conditions in combination with the laws of nature.
  - b. That humans lack the kind of control and action which is needed for free will and basic desert moral responsibility as individuals and their actions are the by-products of constitutive luck.
  - c. That individuals are born with free will and therefore can and should be held morally responsible for their actions.
  - d. Both A and B
3. Which of the following should be the purpose of the criminal justice system under the public health quarantine model?
  - a. Rehabilitation and reintegration

- b. Punishment
  - c. Deterrence
  - d. All of the above

- 4. Why should deterrence only be a secondary justification for the incapacitation of persons who pose a significant risk to society?
  - a. The use of deterrence as the primary justification for incapacitation results in excessive incarceration of individuals
  - b. Deterrence models in the past have led to the reintegration of dangerous criminals back into society.
  - c. A deterrence model may justify imprisoning an innocent person or a person who is not a threat to public safety
  - d. All of the above

- 5. Which of the following statements is true in regard to the social determinants of criminal behavior?
  - a. The social determinants of criminal behavior are uniquely different to those of poor health outcomes.
  - b. The social determinants of criminal behavior are very analogous to the social determinants of poor health outcomes
  - c. Low socio-economic status is the leading social determinant of criminal behavior in our society
  - d. Social determinants do not play a role in criminal behaviour as it is a person's individual circumstances that are the sole determinative factor of criminal activity.

Answers:

1. D 2. A 3. A 4. C 5. B